

Let's Think About It

Respond to the following questions using bullet points. Save your PDF after you complete each response.

Did the amount of dust from your desk that you captured on the tape surprise you? Why?

What happened to the leaf print when you covered it with another material? How do you think this might impact a semiconductor being manufactured?

After performing this activity, is there a part of the front end design process that you would like to know more about?